

What are we going to cover today?

GST Treatment of 25
Selected Types of
Real Property

What are we going to cover?

There are a vast number of types and variations of what constitutes ‘real property’ in legal, common law and commercial frameworks, and the GST law was necessarily designed to be able to respond to that

Real property can take many forms, like ‘freehold’, ‘strata titles’, ‘common property’, ‘leases’, ‘licences’, ‘contractual issues’, ‘easements’

That’s why ‘real property’ for GST purposes refers to ‘rights’ and ‘interests’ that ‘relate’ to land, and must be able to deal with matters such as ‘contractual rights/obligations/restrictions’, ‘things attached to the land’, ‘subterranean and air rights’, ‘improvements’, ‘right of way’ etc.

What are we going to cover?

Even further, there are:

- Many ways to calculate GST other than the straight 10%, including ‘margin scheme’, ‘approved valuations’, ‘market values’, ‘50% of price’ etc
- Factors like jurisdiction and place
- Exceptions like being ‘out of scope’, ‘farmland’, ‘government land’ etc
- Input taxed elections like ‘long term accommodation’
- GST-free elections like ‘going concerns’

We will only be covering 25 variations of GST and real property issues today

Legislative references in this presentation

All references to sections in this presentation are to the

A New Tax System (Goods and Services Tax) Act
(often referred to as the “GST Act”)

Most of the sections referenced are for guidance only and are not complete, and you must look further to the rest of the sections and sub-sections, associated provisions, regulations and definitions where appropriate

You will see some words in the sections that are in blue or have an * which indicate that the word is defined in the GST Act

Where do we start?

The most obvious categories of real property are

Commercial property

Residential property

No. 1 Where do we find “commercial ‘property” in the GST Law? We don’t!

Section 9.5

You make a taxable supply if:

- (a) you make the supply for * consideration; and
- (b) the supply is made in the course or furtherance of an * enterprise that you carry on;
- (c) the supply is * connected with the indirect tax zone; and
- (d) you are * registered, or * required to be registered.

However, the supply is not a * taxable supply to the extent that it is * GST-free or * input taxed.

Definition of “supply” includes real property

Section 9.10

- (1) A supply is any form of supply whatsoever
- (2) Without limiting subsection (1), supply includes any of these:
 - ...
 - (d) a grant, assignment or surrender of * real property;
 - ...

Definition of “real property” is very broad

Section 195.1

"real property" includes:

- (a) any interest in or right over land; or
- (b) a personal right to call for or be granted any interest in or right over land; or
- (c) a licence to occupy land or any other contractual right exercisable over or in relation to land.

In the beginning ...

Real property

- Supplied in Australia
- For consideration
- In the course of carrying on an enterprise
- By an entity registered or required to be registered
- That is not input taxed or GST-free

can be referred to as commercial property, and is taxable at 10%, but you won't find it listed anywhere in the GST Act

There really could be hundred of sub-types of ‘commercial real property’

This category is not necessarily “commercial” in character. There isn’t really such a category. That is, it is more a ‘catch-all category’ normally used where the real property is “not GST-free” and is “not residential”. It could be any shed or building, vacant land, lease, right of access, covenant, laneway, air rights ...

There is virtually no limit to the number, range and types of real properties that could be subject to 10% GST, and they are not listed anywhere. They are simply supplies of any kind of real property whatsoever. They are all included here as No. 1 supplies of commercial real property.

We will now proceed to 24 that are actually specifically categorised and mentioned in the GST law, but note that there are even more that we won’t have time to cover today

Residential Premises

Section 195.1

"residential premises" means land or a building that:

- (a) is occupied as a residence or for residential accommodation; or
- (b) is intended to be occupied, and is capable of being occupied, as a residence or for residential accommodation

 - (c) have been built, or contain a building that has been built, to replace demolished premises on the same land.

Residential is no longer New if after 50 year longer term lease

Section 40.60

"long" - term lease means a supply by way of lease, hire or licence (including a renewal or extension of a lease, hire or licence) for at least 50 years if:

- (a) at the time of the lease, hire or licence, or the renewal or extension of the lease, hire or licence, it was reasonable to expect that it would continue for at least 50 years; and
- (b) unless the supplier is an * Australian government agency--the terms of the lease, hire or licence, or the renewal or extension of the lease, hire or licence, as they apply to the * recipient are substantially the same as those under which the supplier held the premises.

No. 4 What I call the ‘Flip Flop Category’ or the ‘The 5 Year Rule’ when ‘New’ flips to ‘Not New’

Section 40.75

(2) However, the * residential premises are not new residential premises if, for the period of at least 5 years since:

(a) if paragraph (1)(a) applies (and neither paragraph (1)(b) nor paragraph (1)(c) applies)--the premises first became residential premises; or

(b) if paragraph (1)(b) applies--the premises were last * substantially renovated;

or

(c) if paragraph (1)(c) applies--the premises were last built;

the premises have only been used for making supplies that are * input taxed because of paragraph 40 - 35(1)(a).

Commercial Residential Premises

Common characteristics of operating hotels, motels, inns, hostels and boarding houses that are relevant, though not necessarily determinative, to characterising premises as commercial residential premises are:

- Commercial intention The premises are operated on a commercial basis or in a business-like manner even if they are operated by a non-profit body.
- Multiple occupancy The premises have the capacity to provide accommodation to multiple, unrelated guests or residents at once in separate rooms, or in a dormitory.
- Holding out to the public The premises offer accommodation to the public or a segment of the public.
- Accommodation is the main purpose Providing accommodation is the main purpose of the premises

Commercial Residential Premises

- Central management The premises have central management to accept reservations, allocate rooms, receive payments and perform or arrange services. This can be provided through facilities on-site or off-site.
- Management offers accommodation in its own right. The entity operating the premises supplies accommodation in its own right rather than as an agent.
- Provision of, or arrangement for, services Management provides guests and residents with some services and facilities, or arranges for third parties to provide them.
- Occupants have status as guests Predominantly, the occupants are travellers who have their principal place of residence elsewhere. The occupants do not usually enjoy an exclusive right to occupy any particular part of the premises in the same way as a tenant.

Margin Scheme: Conceptually

There are a vast range of variations to margin scheme outcomes in various situations

The general intent is to capture, transaction by transaction, GST on each margin added from 1 July 2000 until the final sale of new residential premises (but see the earlier ‘Flip Flop’ example) and various changes to the GST Act in 2005 and 2008. Some of these changes result in the margin scheme not being eligible to be used and some alter the calculation

Refer the entirety of Division 75 as we can’t cover it all in this presentation

Margin Scheme: Special Calculations

And so on right through many other provision covering a vast range of situations

In many cases, it requires the ‘margin’ of the previous vendor to be taken into account or the margin to be referenced back to the value at 1 July 2000

No. 23 Margin Scheme: Valuation or Cost

The ‘margin’ on which GST is calculated is normally based on”

- The full consideration for which the supply is made, including GST and settlement day adjustments, but not the stamp duty payable by the purchaser

Less

- An amount that can be deducted from that consideration

Leaving

- The “margin” of which $1/11^{\text{th}}$ is the GST payable (see No. 21)

Margin Scheme: Valuation or Cost

That “Valuation or Cost” is determined in various provisions in Division 75, and can be:

“GST inclusive market value”

- Contributing (ie making a supply or ‘deemed sale’ of one ‘lot’) by a partner to property development partnership
- Developing half a private property into two new townhouses, one to keep using as a residence and one to sell
- Family sharing and succession arrangements, especially when complex estates, inheritance, Trust, JVs and Partnerships over period of time are involved
