Some GST basics

Australia's GST is supposed to be a form of consumption tax with the objective of imposing GST on virtually everything made in or brought into Australia whether it's:

- Goods grown, bred, extracted or made and supplied in Australia
- Services and intangibles created and supplied in Australia
- Real property created or supplied in Australia
- Goods crossing over the sea or air borders into Australian territory
- Services and intangibles supplied from places located overseas, by businesses located overseas, into Australia

That's to ensure supplies in Australia are equally subject to GST, whether from Australian or foreign sources, and whether supplied by businesses based in Australia or not
